Personally Selected by Our Representative in Europe.

For Holiday, Wedding, and Anniversary Gifts.

THIS is a most interesting assemblage of exclusive, artistic foreign pieces of many kinds, suitable for personal adornment and the ornamentation of parlor, hall, library, boudoir, &c., and owing to the fact that there are very few duplicates we would suggest to those desiring these special products for the holidays that to avoid disappointment it is quite necessary to make selection at an early day.

Crests, initials, and monograms embroidered to order on Handkerchiefs, Towels, Table Linen, or other articles intended for gifts. Calendars and Diaries for 1911 ready.

You are invited to inspect these and other articles of our direct importation. Main Floor, F. Eleventh and G Sts.

First Quality Cut Glass.

WE offer but one quality—the best. At no price, however small, do we offer else. Better no glass than poor glass, for defects cannot be hidden. And our prices for the first quality are much too moderate to justify consideration in inferior glass or workmanship.

New York, Nov. 1.—As many as 5,000 invitations were issued for the wedding of Miss Janet Craven De Kay and William Simpson Sloan this afternoon in Grace Church. The church was crowded. Bishop D. H. Greer performed the ceremony at 4 o'clock and the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Ford Craven De Kay. She wore a costume of white satin in empire style, combined with brocade chiffon and old family lace. The veil was secured with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The Misses Helen R. Sloan, sister of the groom; Helen Craven Palmer, of Washington; Edith Prothingham Clarke, of Pittsburgh; Elizabeth Van Cleeve Jones, and Ella Marion Lindley, of New York, were bridesmaids. Samuel Sloan, second, assisted his brother as best man, and Gilder De Kay, James C. Auchincloss, Clarence S. Brown, Harold Gould Henderson, Oscar McMillan Weston, and Gerald Mygatte were ushers. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Sydney De Kay, of 50 West Ninth street. There was no reception, although members of the bridal party and relatives of the couple met informally after the ceremony at the De Kay home. Mr. and Mrs. Sloan will leave at once for Paris, where they will live for the next two years, while Mr. Sloan completes his studies in architecture.

BETHLEHEM CHAPEL CORNER STONE LAID

Service of Episcopal Church Marks Ceremony.

IN MEMORY OF SATTERLEE

First Step in Erection of Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul—High Church Dignitaries Present—Bishop Brent, of the Philippines, Takes Part. Preaches Eloquent Sermon.

In the gentle autumn melancholy, with rich gold touching the leafage of the surrounding hills and dunes, Mount St. Alban was the shrine of pilgrims yesterday afternoon, when the corner stone of the Bethlehem chapel of the Holy Nativity, in memory of the Right Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, D. D., LL. D., first Bishop of Washington, was laid with the beautiful service of the Episcopal Church. Thus the first step in the erection of the great cathedral of St. Peter and Paul, which will literally be the central and dominating force of the Anglican Church in the United States, was taken.

It was the first token of visible progress toward the realization of the Satterlee vision—the vision for which he worked so indefatigably, and which he has bequeathed to his successors. The tribute which the Episcopalians of Washington paid to his memory yesterday was one long to be remembered.

High Church Men Present.

The event was graced with the presence of some of the highest dignitaries of the church, including Bishop Brent, of the Philippines; Bishop Moreland, of Sacramento; Bishop Nelson, of Atlanta; Bishop Harding, of Washington, and practically all of the local clergy. The corner stone was laid in a majestic, simple, and inspiring service, surrounded by wooded slopes, and partially excavated for the work of the masons and rock-cutters.

In its center a pulpit was improvised, and the cross was raised. Flanking it on the right was the St. Alban's choir, assisted by members of many other Episcopal choirs of the city and a quota of buglers and cornetists from the Marine Band. On the left were the organ, the choir, and the choir. The service was a masterpiece of simplicity and grandeur, and the setting of the hymns and the setting of the hymns, easily numbering 2,000 persons.

Sermon by Bishop Brent.

The feature of the service was the masterful and brilliant sermon delivered by Bishop Brent, who came out of the "far East" from the "little brown men" of the Philippine archipelago in order to present, in the face of the cross, an impressive and inspiring service, in which chants and hymns rang out and echoed on the hills. Nature herself provided the shrine and the setting yesterday. Tiffy could not have been improved upon.

The corner stone was laid by Henry Yates Satterlee, second, a lad of nine years, amid the silence commanded by the Episcopal ritual in the following words:

While the stone is being laid all the people shall keep silence, remembering that when the Temple of Solomon was in building neither hammer nor ax nor tool of iron was used in the house, nor was any man meddling with the holy words following, including them that as the birth of Christ was the beginning of the Kingdom of God on earth, so the Bethlehem Chapel of the Holy Nativity is the beginning of Washington Cathedral, to be builded here as a witness to the incarnation and birth of Jesus Christ of the substance of a pure virgin.

Among the mementos placed in the stone, as read by Dr. W. L. De Vries, of St. Mark's, were Bishop Satterlee's book on cathedrals, Nellie, Susan Campbell as the American heiress, Mr. Dunn as the society lady, and Messrs. Joseph States as a tramp, Robert Cleveland as dinky, Arthur Lowe as clown, Warren Allen as white clown, Arthur Beatty as "good-night," Marion Hodgson as pink rose, John Hodgson as sailor, Edward Reed as Black Maria, James Reed as a page, Fenwick Smith as policeman, Walter Winslow as Uncle Joe, J. A. Hunter as the all-round sportsman, and Alfred Pentreas as sheriff.

Mrs. William Lee Pryor was hostess at a bridge party yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. and Miss Balsinger, of Pittsburgh, at her apartment in the Northumberland.
